OUR EXPECTATIONS

College Expectations for Academic Success

The College will work closely with all students and parents to create a purposeful, creative and stimulating environment in which students are encouraged to fully develop - both academically and personally.

We will expect you to take responsibility for your own behaviour and learning. The current College Committee along with the student body have discussed and agreed that students should commit to:

- Ensuring academic success through regular attendance and punctuality at all required registrations, lessons, supervised study lessons and Inspire Periods. Attendance which drops below 95% reduces Key Stage 5 performance by at least one grade, so it is taken very seriously.
- Completing all set tasks on time to the best of your ability, making full use of study periods and homework to enable you to meet all deadlines.
- Using study time effectively by bringing all required equipment and resources with you and making full and regular use of the College study rooms and LRC, respecting the need for silent studying conditions.
- Working closely with all your teachers to develop an effective working relationship based on mutual respect and discussing your work with them on a regular basis and meeting targets set.
- Developing your skills as an independent, self-evaluative learner and work closely with your tutor in monitoring and discussing your academic progress. As an independent learner, if you miss a lesson, it is your own responsibility to find the teacher and catch up with the work missed.
- Organising your work efficiently and effectively into folders for each subject, making full use of individual subject expectations and using Cornell Notes daily to ensure work in your folders is relevant and meaningful.
- Keeping mobile phones out-of-sight in all classrooms and during assemblies so that lessons are not disturbed and/or important information is missed.
- Attending all parents' evenings and arrange appointments with your teachers to discuss your progress and work.

Course-specific Expectations for Academic Success

- An open mind
- Willingness to ask questions, share your opinions and ideas
- Enthusiasm for learning new ideas
- Openness to having personal beliefs and values challenged
- Strong interest in reading around the subject and learning how to write a great essay

USING CORNELL NOTES

The Cornell Notes system is a note-taking system devised by Walter Pauk, an education professor at Cornell University. It is a proven method that establishes a more effective learning process.

It is designed to help the user think and reflect upon the notes they have made as well as making them more useful for revision purposes.

Please click here to watch a video that explains how to take Cornell Notes properly.

REVIEW / REVISE

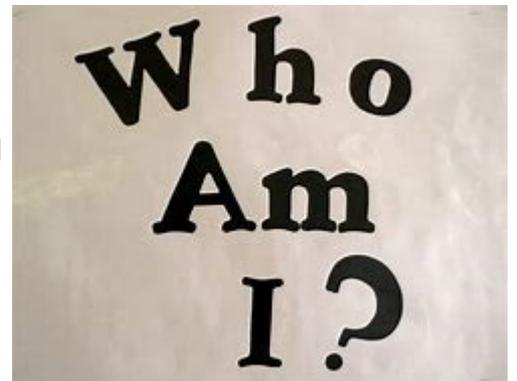

Sociology asks many questions. Below are a range of fundamental questions sociologists ask about the world we live in. These topics are known as 'sociology basics', and will feature throughout the A Level course.

Carry out your own independent research and try to answer as many of the following questions as you can. Be sure to support your answers with evidence. You can use a range of resources such as the internet, podcasts, videos and news reports to find the answers.

The Fundamental Questions in Sociology

Socialisation - learning the norms and values of society

1. Is our behaviour in our genes or the result of our upbringing?
2. Can we choose our behaviour? Or is it actually determined by our socialisation?
3. Are we socialised by society as a whole? Or do the powerful get to decide how we are socialised?

Culture - whole way of life

1. Is one culture better than another?
2. What cultures do you belong to?
3. What is a subculture?

Identity - how we see ourselves and how others see us

Which of these do you feel matter most to you?

- Your class (i.e. your parents' income/education/wealth)
- Your age
- Your gender
- Your ethnicity (which is what cultural group you belong to – but you might also consider your race which is the colour of your skin)

REVIEW / REVISE

Social Stratification - how society is organised

1. Are people equal in society?
2. Do they have the same opportunities?
3. Do some groups exploit others?
4. Do rich people oppress poor people?
5. Do men oppress women?
6. Do white people oppress ethnic minorities?

Power - who is in control?

1. Who has power in society?
2. How do they use that power?
3. How do people control other people?
4. How do powerful people get others to do things they don't want to do?

POWER

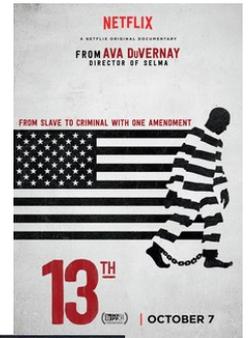

WATCH

1. 13th (Netflix and Youtube)

Are black people more criminal?

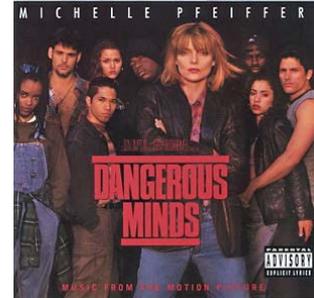

An amazing documentary about the relationship of crime to ethnicity. The racism of the state and the police and the prison system are put under the microscope in a mesmerising way.

2. Dangerous Minds

Are schools against poor people?

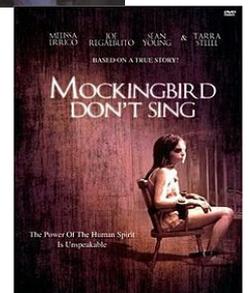

This is an easy-going film that highlights the main sociological theories about why some people don't achieve in education: family background, deprivation, and teacher labelling are all explored in a straightforward Hollywood manner.

3. Mockingbird Don't Sing

Is our behaviour created by nature or nurture?

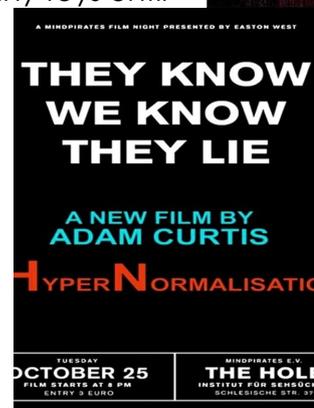

Not an aspect of the A Level course, as such, but it provides a great and shocking introduction to the idea of socialisation. It follows the true story of the abuse of a young girl who was deprived of human contact, in darkness, without any toys until her teenage years.

4. Hypernormalisation

Is our idea of reality constructed by the media?

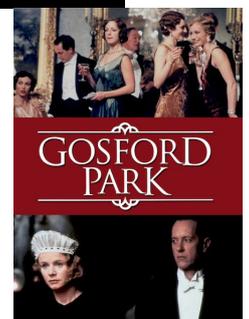

This is an Adam Curtis documentary that is not for the faint hearted. If you liked the other films you still may find this tough going. It explores how what we think is really happening in the world is invented by the media and the powerful figures behind it.

5. Gosford Park

Is class or gender more important in deciding our behaviour?

An exploration of life in the beginning of the 20th century - this is a great exploration of the class and gender divides that mark our history.

LISTEN TO

Here are a range of podcasts and radio shows for you to listen to. They will help broaden your subject knowledge and get you thinking about the society in which we live.

For each episode, practise making Cornell notes, summarising the points being made. Add a section at the end to give your own conclusions, what you think, what you have agreed with and what you have disagreed with and why.

Marx and Marxism

Marx and Marxism revisited.

AS and A-level Sociology

Teaching from: September 2015

Exams from: 2016 (AS), 2017 (A-level)

Specification code: 7191 7192

QAN code: 601/3995/X; 601/3994/8

As the most popular choices for AS and A-level Sociology, our specifications offer an engaging and effective introduction to sociology.

We worked with teachers, higher education and the British Sociological Association to produce clear, up-to-date and stimulating specifications.

We have designed the AS and A-level specifications to cover the core areas of sociology and be fully co-teachable within the first year of study.

A comprehensive range of support is available including face-to-face events, digital resources and continuous professional development training.
